This year’s LaborCare Health and Benefits Fair on April 10 drew a greater crowd than last year and received rave reviews. “The number one reason people came to the fair this year was because of the access to health care experts and information,” says Dr. Ted Loftness, vice president of labor health services for Medica. Availability of health assessments came in second, and last year’s experience at the fair came in third.

The health fair’s exit survey also showed that 94 percent of its participants rated the family focused event as a very positive experience, 90 percent said they would return next year and upwards of 98 percent would recommend the fair to a friend.

And although the overall health assessments completed showed a slight decrease from last year, Loftness attributes this to the word getting out about health awareness and members and their families being proactive in this area. “Many had already visited their doctor and knew their numbers,” he says.

Participants also enjoyed the interaction with the sponsors whether it was a task, screening or game. Because of this, interaction will be a still bigger focus next year along with increased access to nutrition, diet and weight loss information.

“Although the speakers and breakout sessions were well received,” says Loftness, “with the number of activities and booths that were available making the fair somewhat of a carnival atmosphere, participants found it difficult to fully engage in any one speaker or session.”

Once again, like last year though, a number of undetected health concerns were found, such as participants with very high blood pressure and high blood sugar. “We also did 130 ultrasound screens for aneurysms of the abdominal aorta and found six. These individuals are currently receiving follow up care,” says Loftness. “Theoretically, if these hadn’t been found and they had ruptured...well, six lives have been saved.”

Twenty people volunteered to be part of the coaching program and their progress will be followed throughout the year.

Loftness adds that they’ll take everything they learned this year and make it a bigger and better fair next year. “We’re always looking for new ideas and a new look and feel. And as always, it will be fun, family focused event.” Next year’s LaborCare Fair is set for April 9th.

New Prague, Minn., residents Diane and Al Lambrecht (shown on the left) and Bruce and Sandy Johnson from Eden Prairie, Minn., met for the first time at the 2010 LaborCare Health and Benefits Fair on April 10th. Albert and Bruce are retired Bricklayer Local 1 members; Al, a 20-year member and Bruce, a 45-year member.

Lambrecht completed the health assessment and is committed to increasing his exercise through long walks with his wife. He also won a Grohe faucet at the fair and will donate it to a local charity. He retired in March 2009.

Eden Prairie, Minn., residents Bruce Johnson and his wife Sandy were extremely impressed with last year’s event. So this year they arrived with greater preparedness. “We fasted prior to completing the health assessment,” says Sandy. “We also enjoyed the guest speakers and learned some arthritis exercises that have become part of their lifestyle change. “It’s a great event for anybody.”

Last year the couple won $2,000 toward a cruise of their choice so in September 2009 they headed to Alaska. Johnson also won an off-road bicycle with “fancy new pedals.” He later took a tumble with it when he couldn’t free his feet and has since replaced the pedals. This year he won a fleece shirt from Medica.

“The health fair is one of the nicest things they do for the membership,” says Sandy. “We’ll definitely attend next year.”

Johnson retired in 2007 and this summer his plans include working in the yard and spending time with his nine grandchildren.

Do you have a health awareness story to share resulting from your attendance at the LaborCare Health and Benefits Fair? Or if you’re making a change in your lifestyle to improve your health, let us know. Remember, even the smallest positive change can make a huge difference. Lundquist Retires After 36 Years

Effective May 1, Jim Lundquist began his retirement after serving as President/Secretary-Treasurer of the Bricklayers & Allied Craftworkers Local 1 Minnesota/North Dakota.

A member since June 1974, Lundquist worked as a Bricklayer, Marble Mason and foreman for 15 years. In 1989 he was elected as a field representative and held this position for the next 15 years until he was elected President in 2004.

“There were a lot of challenges along the way,” says Lundquist. “The most memorable and difficult were the mergers in 1992. Some locals welcomed them while others felt they lost their identity, even if they had little or no representation.”

It was also difficult for Lundquist as an officer to explain to the membership the benefits of belonging to a larger local versus smaller, independent locals.

As challenging as the mergers were though, they brought about many long term positive changes that the membership is enjoying today. Minnesota and North Dakota now have all the same benefits – health and welfare, pensions and vacation. Regardless of where each member works, he or she can be covered under our insurance and pension.

And with nearly 36 years of service behind him, Lundquist finally gets to reap the personal rewards of his commitment and dedication to BAC Local 1 MN/ND. Retirement. In late May, he, his brother and two close friends went deep sea fishing off the coast of Florida, a sport that he’s put on hold for nearly 20 years. His passions for hunting and golf have also taken a back seat to weekends dedicated to local union business throughout the two states. And this new grandfather also now has more time with his family and a new grandson, Jamison. His work on the Terry Clark campaign, 6th district, will keep him busy this summer, too. Yet Lundquist won’t step too far away from union business, though. He’ll will continue to serve as a trustee on the MN/ND BAC pension fund.

Looking back, Lundquist reflects that he’s always tried to treat every member fairly whether it was to help them qualify for health benefits or research old work hours to qualify for or enhance their pensions. “Many of you know I’ve had an open door policy and I’d talk to anyone at any time,” he says. The only advice he has to offer Mike Cook, President/Secretary-Treasurer, is to continue to extend the open door policy to all members, like they’ve always done.

“And remember, he says. “Your local union staff is there to help you when you need it.”

Jim thanks the membership for the pleasure and privilege to serve this Union as a Business Representative for 22 years and as its President for the last six years.

We wish Jim a long and happy retirement. Congratulations!

As per constitution, Michael Cook will fill the remainder of the term as the President/Secretary-Treasurer of BAC Local 1 MN/ND. Michael Haukothone will fill the remainder of the term as Executive Vice President. Mike has recently been Business Manager with Minneapolis Building Trades and has rejoined the office staff of the Local union after Jim’s retirement. He has been a Vice President for nine years. Jim Steibe will be a new Vice President and will join the management team of the local union. He has been the Chapter Chairman for the Duluth and Iron Range area for many years.

2010 Negotiations

By Mike Cook, President/Secretary-Treasurer

This year’s negotiations took on a different tone. With unionized work at record lows and very little construction in general we did not have much leverage when sitting across from the employers at the negotiating table.

However, the battle between employers and the union had a central theme, “What can we do to get the members back to work?” Concessions were made in many areas and crafts. And make no doubt about it, a wage freeze is a concession. These were the toughest negotiations that I have participated in the 13 years that I have worked for the local union. Many tough decisions were made so that the employers could competitively bid in today’s market. If the employers can’t compete when bidding, none of our members will be working. The negotiating committees and the employers felt that if we were able to change a few things in the contracts, we could compete with the non-union contractors and put our people back to work.

Again, everything that we agreed to was done to put our members back on the job sites. Let’s hope that it works.

Take Initiative to Promote Our Services
By Mike Ganz, Vice President/Business Representative

At this time the issues that are of most concern to our members are available work and contract negotiations. And although I can answer these concerns with brevity, unfortunately the process to resolving each is not as simple.

Among all the factors weighing in on new work, funding is a major part of it. Whether the funding comes from financial institutions or investors or the legislators passing the bonding bill, the challenges are well laid out before us. In this edition, Minnesota’s AFL-CIO President Shar Knutson addresses this very issue citing the recently passed public works and angel investors tax credits. See the back page of this newsletter for further details.

I visited with a local contractor who brought up an idea that is obvious, but many times is overlooked because of contract language or money issues. The idea of promoting BAC Local 1 MN/ND work. It’s not that it never gets discussed at the table, but in the past it seemed not as big of a concern with the amount of projects around. Yet with today’s lagging job market, this idea is surfacing more and more as I speak with other individuals.

Every member, contractor, supplier and manufacturer needs to promote BAC Local 1 MN/ND work. As members we look at ourselves as high quality craftworkers. Now we also need to step it up and see ourselves as high caliber sales people. We must be able to sell our services to architects, business owners and decision makers.

To do this, as members we need to voice ourselves more in our communities so that our schools, churches, grocery stores, medical facilities and government centers build with and add more materials to their projects that are BAC friendly. Olene Bigelow, Minnesota director for the International Masonry Institute, does a great job on this for us. We need to follow her lead and help promote ourselves because union doesn’t mean “one person”. Our involvement might be to attend a city or township council meeting or school board meeting many of which don’t understand construction that is most sustainable. Or we can simply stay informed of current construction proposals through our local community newspapers and relay the information to the Local 1 office. The earlier we can get involved the better are our chances to promote our services.

It might surprise you that some of our members are already in positions where these types of issues are discussed and where decisions are made. If you are currently a city council, township or school board member or on an advisory board or hold some other position in the government arena please contact me at 612-865-0343 or at mganz@bac1mn-nd.org. I would like to hear what is being discussed in your community.

Let’s all stand up, get involved and help simulate the construction fields that most affect us in BAC Local 1 MN/ND. Remember. United We Stand, Divided We Fall.

HEALTH CORNER

Mail Order Prescriptions
If you take one or more maintenance medicines, you may save money and time with mail service and have your medicine conveniently delivered to your home, office or location of choice.

With the CVS Caremark Mail Service Pharmacy, you can:
• Receive an extended supply of medicine
• Enjoy free regular delivery
• Speak to a registered pharmacist 24 hours a day, seven days a week
• Contact a pharmacist with your questions on Caremark.com
• Order prescription refills online or by phone anytime, day or night

Packaged for safety
Your medicine will be mailed to you in plain, tamper-proof packaging. An order form and a return envelope are included with every delivery. All items in your order typically arrive in one package. If an item is not available, CVS Caremark will contact you to determine if you want the available items shipped or held until all items are ready.

Tips for saving time and money
• Ask your doctor about generic medicines. Research shows that you can save an average of 30 to 80 percent when you fill your prescriptions with a generic instead of a brand-name drug.
• Your prescription benefit program has a Preferred Drug List. We recommend you print a copy of the list from Caremark.com and take it with you to your doctor's office. Using medicines on this list may save you and your prescription plan money.
• Make sure the prescription you receive from your doctor is legible. It should include the patient’s full name, the prescribing doctor’s contact information and the prescription details – including the date it was written.

Getting started is easy!
If you need your prescription filled right away, ask your doctor to write two prescriptions for your long-term medicines:
• The first for a short-term supply (e.g., 30 days) to be filled right away at a participating retail pharmacy
• second for the maximum days supply allowed (up to a 90-day supply) with as many as three refills (if appropriate) to be mailed to CVS Caremark

Complete the mail service order form. You can fill out and print the form online at Caremark.com by clicking on New Prescriptions. An incomplete form can cause a delay in processing.

Mail your order form along with your prescription(s) and payment in the envelope provided, or use your own envelope to mail the form and payment to the CVS Caremark Mail Service Pharmacy address printed on the form. You can pay using an electronic check, Bill Me Later®, or credit card (VISA®, MasterCard®, Discover® or American Express®). Or you can pay by check or money order. Do not send cash.

AAC Makes Minnesota Debut

Autoclaved Aerated Concrete, super-lightweight masonry units and panels, made their entry to the Minnesota market in fine style May 12 with a workshop at the BAC Local 1 MN/ND training center that drew more than 100 architects, engineers, building officials and contractors.

Through presentations, demonstrations and lots of Q & A, participants learned about this material’s remarkable properties including outstanding fire and sound resistance with weight comparable to wood frame or steel stud construction.

As AAC gains acceptance among designers and building officials in Minnesota, IMI and BAC will provide the additional journey-level upgrade training and certification needed for craftworkers to install this material. For more information on AAC and its capabilities, go to www.imiweb.org.

Contractors Embrace Sustainable Certification

Nearly two dozen Minnesota union contractors recently joined the ranks of certified Sustainable Masonry Contractors under IMI’s new program that prepares masonry contractors to fulfill all the responsibilities they will be given when working on a project for which LEED® certification is sought. The day-long seminar held May 6 at the BAC Local 1 MN/ND Training Center in St. Paul involved learning the nuts and bolts of sustainability practices and contractors’ role in the LEED® certification process, regardless of their masonry craft, be it brick, block, tile, stone, terrazzo or restoration. Contractors from the Twin Cities as well as Glyndon and Duluth attended.

A list of certified firms will be maintained in the IMI office for referral purposes and names of contractors completing the program will be posted by region on the IMI Web site at www.imiweb.org.

To learn more about the International Masonry Institute, visit www.imiweb.org.

POLITICS

– Our Issues

By Shar Knutson,
President of the
Minnesota AFL-CIO

A Mixed Session for Working Minnesotans

The 2010 Legislative session is over and the results are a mixed bag. First the good news. The Legislature passed two big pieces of legislation to create tens of thousands of jobs. The public works and angel investors tax credits will go a long way toward putting more Minnesotans back to work in family sustaining jobs. It will also help rebuild Minnesota’s long-neglected public infrastructure.

On the disappointing side, Governor Pawlenty blocked attempts at making taxes fairer for the middle class. According to the Minnesota Department of Revenue, the richest residents pay the lowest overall rate in state and local taxes. Both the House and Senate passed legislation to increase income tax rates for only the richest Minnesotans, with the revenue going to schools. Sadly, the Governor issued his veto stamp.

The “final deal” will preserve Minnesota’s health care system that keeps costs under control for everyone. But, there is a catch. The plan relies on money from the federal health care reform bill and will require our next Governor to sign off on receiving it. Republican candidate Tom Emmer has already said he won’t sign off on the dollars; meaning thousands would lose health insurance and health care costs would go up for everyone.

While the Legislature and the Governor did get its work done on time, Minnesota’s budget crisis is not over. The new Governor and the Legislature will face a six billion dollar budget mess when they return in January. Hopefully, they will produce a long-term solution that gets our state back on track for middle class families.
